Success Story

Geosense, the story of successful UNYP MBA graduates

Ladislav Čapek and Jan Zvoník founded their start-up Geosense during their MBA studies at UNYP. If they had not decided to study MBA at UNYP, they would probably never have met and or started their business. Here is the story of successful UNYP graduates.

Jan Zvoník says: “Ladislav Čapek and I started our MBA at UNYP in 2008. I think that UNYP offers the best value for money out of all MBA schools in the Czech Republic. I was very satisfied with the level of courses on the program. We met interesting people, both students and teachers, which was one of my most important personal reasons for starting to study MBA. It was about meeting people. We, the two founders of our company, met on the UNYP MBA course, and after a couple of months we found out that we had a similar view of business and that we both wanted to start something new. And this, I think, is the approach UNYP encourages in its students. I see the MBA as a step to change the course of one’s career.

Ladislav had an idea in his mind to start an IT company in the field of geoinformation. I liked the idea (because I love maps) and in 2009 we started to take this seriously. At the end of 2009, we both quit our jobs in multinational companies and we founded a company called Geosense s.r.o. in December 2009.

We became established as one of the leaders of the market, we are number one in users (almost 2000 municipalities are using our solutions out of total of 6400 in the Czech Republic), and we are one of the most in-demand employers in our field - we would bet we are the most in-demand, but we are humble guys. This also attracted some incredibly talented people. So we grew from 2 to almost 30 people. We founded a daughter company in Slovakia a year ago and the story is very similar.

We always had big ambitions and as we had both spent some time in the USA we wanted to try the US market. It was a long shot for us until a year ago. We were selected as one of the companies with big technological and business potential by Czechinvest and we spent half a year in Silicon Valley. We also saw that what we do was really really good and that the market opportunity for our products in the USA is huge. We have local contacts, and so we set up a company in Nevada to serve the local market, and we hope it will be another great part of our story.”
